Meeting Report

President Jeff welcomed members and guests, including his son Matthew who was guest speaker for the evening. Margaret Northcote also introduced Peta Hopley and Julia Hammerle. The club recently sponsored both to attend the RYPEN camp in March. Julia was accompanied to the meeting by her mother Suzanna. Shirley Neale was also welcomed and congratulated on her impending 70th birthday.

Members of the incoming and outgoing boards were reminded that the combined board meeting includes partners who will be entertained by Jeff's wife Jennifer.

President Jeff congratulated all involved in the Annual Art Show preparations. The silver anniversary show looks great and should be a great success.

Advice has been received from the Shelter Box programme that boxes have now been delivered to areas in most need in Burma. In addition, 400 shelter boxes have been sent to the China earthquake zone.

The sergeant again produced an entertaining fine session, with Essendon barrackers again in the "trenches"!

Karen Beck introduced Peta Hopley and Julia Hammerle, who jointly gave members an entertaining account of their participation in the recent RYPEN camp. They both thanked the club for the opportunity to participate in the event and felt that they had learned valuable social skills and improved their self confidence as a result of attending.

<< President Jeff presenting RYPEN certificates to Julia and Peta

Karen then introduced Matthew Neale (son of President Jeff), who recently attended the RYLA camp. Apart from outlining what he did at the camp, Matthew noted that the lack of technology at the site (no radios, TV, mobiles, etc.) facilitated "breaking the ice" with other participants. He also noted that many of the discussions were quite "deep and meaningful", relating to issues that matter in the modern world. He saw the event as an excellent leadership training camp and the main points he drew from it included:

<< Proud father Jeff and son Matthew with RYLA certificate.

- Good leaders need to have a good attitude.
- Good leaders need to be able to meet deadlines.
- Leaders know and take care to present themselves well, in dress and demeanor.
- Leaders think outside the square to address problems and identify opportunities.
- Leaders are keen to understand and accept diversity.
- Leaders listen.

In concluding an excellent presentation, Matthew thanked the club for the opportunity to attend RYLA. Margaret Northcote proposed the vote of thanks for all speakers. Matthew then drew the raffle, one of the winners being his grandmother!

The council has kindly agreed to provide the marquee and security guards at their cost.

President's thoughts for the Week

Jeff had two quotes that related well to the evening's speakers and what they had learn from their RYPEN and RYLA camp experiences:

"Youth is the trustee of prosperity."

"To find friendship, offer friendship."
