MAX'S TRIVIA

In 1499, Spanish explorer Alonso de Ojedo saw Indian houses built on stilts over the water when he was sailing along the Caribbean coast of South America. The area reminded him of Venice and he called it Little Venice which in Spanish is Venezuela.

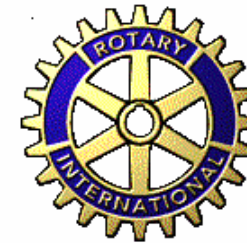

The country with the longest coastline is Canada.

The potato originally came from South America and there are thousands of different varieties. Unfortunately Ireland only had 2 varieties both of which were susceptible to a disease called "late blight", which resulted in the famine 1846-1849.
