MAX'S TRIVIA

There are 3 explanations for the Sausage being called a Snag.

1. the acronym for something nauseating and gruesomely suggestive.
2. Mispronunciation. Sausages were regarded as snacks which eventually became snags.
3. And most likely, the long string of sausages coming out of the maker machine was easily snagged, hence the word Snags.

There are 2 explanations for the term “save your bacon”.

1. in winter in Europe when food was scare and dogs were on the prowl precautions were taken so that you could save your bacon from the hungry dogs.
2. The old Saxon word for a mans back was BACO and anyone deserving punishment and luckily getting away saved his back from a thrashing.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Most privacy violations are not going to be caused by the exposure of huge personal secrets but by the publication of many little facts... as with killer bees, one is a nuisance but a swarm can be deadly.

At the beginning of August PP Boris and Nada will be travelling to Western Australia to the Margaret River via the Simpson Desert and down the Canning Stock Route they will be away about 8 weeks.

President Bruce thanked PP Boris for his informative talk on their forthcoming trip. We hope it will be a great experience.
